William Rock Smith

Born Feb. 15, 1818. at Freeport, N. Y.

Married Dec. 24, 1838 Hempstead, N. Y. to Mary Frost

Died Sept. 17, 1893 Freeport, N. Y.
Buried Greenfield Cemetery, Town of Hempstead, Nassau Co. N. Y.

Account of life:

He was a farmer and a builder of boats. His farm was located north of the Long Island Railroad tracks in the present Village of Freeport. It was situated on both sides of Main St. and extended south from the present Seaman Avenue. It extended for a considerable distance east and west of Main Street. His house was of the familiar Long Island colonial type, of many rooms, and was located on the west side of Main St., facing south. His shop and boat yard was opposite the house, on the east side of Main Street. In this boat yard, a mile and a half from the water, he built boats up to the size of two-masted schooners. These ships, when completed, had to be moved, as one would move a house, to the Freeport Creek for launching. One two-masted schooner "The Democrat", was used in commerce and was in Freeport waters until very recent years.

Physical description:

He was a man of stocky build. He was an honest, respected and upright citizen of the community.
